F. D. R.'S FORCES ARE REVERSED IN COURT VOTE

52-36 Ballot Lacks Seven Votes of Required Two-Thirds

OPPONENTS SAY ISSUE IS DEAD

Advocates Baker, Root, Others Say Fight Must Go On

By D. HAROLD OLIVER, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Roosevelt administration, after suffering its first major reversal of the 74th congress when the senate voted to keep America out of the World Court, turned today to the task of welding its strength for struggles over vast domestic problems.

Effect Is Debated

What effect last night's vote—in which the senate rejected the World Court proposal by a surprising margin of seven votes—would have on other paramount issues was a matter of much conjecture.

Some contended it might lend strength to the drive of critics seeking to change features of such measures as the $4,680,000,000 work and relief bill; others viewed it as a non-partisan fight with no predictable bearing on other controversies.

The roll call, which wrote a climax to 12 years of controversy, showed 52 votes for joining the court and 36 "noes." With 68 voting, this was seven votes short of the required two-thirds.

Jubilantly, the court's opponents declared that the issue was dead forever. Weary after a long fight for the court, the administration leader, Senator Robinson, said sadly: "This forecloses the question of American entry into the court for an indefinite period."

But prominent court advocates, including Elihu Root and Newton D. Baker, said the fight must go on. President Roosevelt, who had urged entrance to the court, was silent.

Priest Leads Fight

Both proponents and opponents agreed that an important factor in the result was the radio campaign conducted against the court by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit priest.

Senator Robinson, who led the fight for adherence against the anti-court chiefs, Johnson of California and Borah of Idaho, said the "telegrams received by senators during the last two or three days had a very powerful influence."

In Detroit, Father Coughlin congratulated "the aroused people of the United States who by more than 200,000 telegrams containing at least 1,000,000 names demanded that the principles established by Washington and Jefferson keep clear from foreign entanglements and European wars."

The first definite sign that adherence advocates were in danger of defeat came when Robinson accepted a reservation, with President Roosevelt's consent, providing that this country could not submit any question to the tribunal without concluding a "general or special" treaty with the disputant.

At first it appeared this would clinch ratification, but Senators Johnson and Norris (R., Neb.) said

Bruno's Wife Takes Stand With Alibi To Support Her Husband

Declares Hauptmann Was With Her On Night of March 1, 1932, When Baby Lindbergh Was Stolen From His Crib

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY (Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 30.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's wife, the mother of his own small child, offered a tremulous alibi to his murder jury today in an effort to save him from the electric chair for the kidnaping and murder of baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

She said Hauptmann was with her on the night of March 1, 1932, when baby Lindbergh was stolen from his crib at Hopewell, N. J.

She further upheld her husband in his contention that he spent the evening at home on the night of November 26, 1933, when he was alleged to have offered one of the Lindbergh ransom bills at a New York theater.

She also disputed the testimony of a state witness, Mrs. Ella Achenbach, her former employer, who said the Hauptmanns called on her in March, 1932, after the kidnaping, saying they had just returned from a trip, Hauptmann limping. Mrs. Hauptmann said the call was paid in 1931; further, that she had had a quarrel with Mrs. Achenbach about pay.

Mr. Hyland was born in Elkton, Md. His father was a retired army captain of the War of 1812.

He lived in Columbiana in 1904. After spending several years there, he moved to Salem and lived here until 1922 when he went to Cleveland.

For a number of years he was interested in leases and wells around the Columbiana county district. He retired about 30 years ago.

He leaves his widow, four sons and five daughters. Thomas B. Hyland, one of the sons, is now living in Columbiana.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at the home in Cleveland. The body will be taken to Columbiana for burial.

REVOLTERS ASK ADVICE OF U. S.

Anti-Long Delegation Wants To Know If Uprising Conflicts With Government

(By Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 30.—Louisiana citizens who have shouldered arms against Senator Huey P. Long's dictatorship today awaited word from Washington whether their uprising involved conflict with the federal government.

From one of the Feliciana parishes, where anti-Long citizens have for days expected the state militia to move against them, a former district judge wired Secretary of War Dorn to learn his attitude toward the possibility of a civilian clash with Long's troops.

It was announced by A. D. St. Amant, a member of the Liberty with the Square Deal association, league, an organization affiliated of Louisiana, a citizen's body arrayed against Long, that former Judge Charles F. Kilbourne, of East Feliciana parish, had put the question up to the secretary of war.

At the same time, over in West Feliciana, State Representative George W. Lester, an anti-Long lawmaker, said he doubted that Louisiana citizens were "going to stand for any more tightening of the thumb screws without revolt."

He also expressed belief that Long intended to take over the politically antagonized government of East and West Feliciana parishes in the same way he has acted to assume control of the hostile parish of East Baton Rouge by having the legislature approve the appointment of enough police jurors to offset the elected jurors.

Lester asserted that Long was "attempting to get hold of everything he can while the getting is good."

EASTMAN URGES U. S. REGULATION OF TRANSPORTS

Would Cover Sea, Land and Air Transportation, Congress Told

SUPER AGENCY TO RULE WHOLE UNIT

Plan meets Immediate Opposition From ICC Members

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—A vast plan to extend federal regulation to all important forms of transportation on land, sea and in the air was recommended to congress today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation.

A super-agency, in the form of a re-created interstate commerce commission, would rule the nation's far-flung networks of carriers.

Urges Group of 16

Setting his goal as co-ordinated, efficient and economical transportation, Eastman urged that instead of the present ICC of 11 men, the new agency have a membership of 16 divided into five units:

- A finance division of three members.
- A railroad division of five.
- A water carrier and pipeline division of three.
- A motor carrier and air carrier division of three.
- A control board, composed of the chairman of the commission and the heads of the four subsidiary divisions under it.

The office of co-ordinator of transportation would be continued. Under a law proposed by Eastman, the co-ordinator could compel unification of facilities. If orders for co-ordination of facilities were disobeyed fines as high as $20,000 a day could be imposed.

All transportation would be removed from NRA control. Dismissal wages would be given men displaced by consolidations of services.

Eastman rejected the Prince plan of regional railroad consolidation and his own favored plan for government ownership on the ground of difficulty of accomplishment and the large national debt. He urged amendment of the bankruptcy act to facilitate railroad reorganizations.

Plan Is Opposed

His plan met immediate opposition. Eight of the present members of the ICC, in a letter transmitting the report to congress, asserted reorganization of the commission is unnecessary and undesirable.

The ultimate objective, Eastman said, is "a system of transportation for the nation which will supply the most efficient means of transport and furnish service as cheaply as is consistent with fair treatment of labor and with earnings which will support adequate credit and the ability to expand as needed."

Slain By Sheriff

MT. STERLING, Ky., Jan. 30.—A man identified as C. O. Baldwin, 65, Hillsboro, O., was killed, and his son, C. W. Baldwin, was held in jail here, after an encounter with Menifee county sheriff, Asa Little.

Little attempted to halt their truck, at the request of Morgan county authorities and fired after Baldwin shot at him, when the pursuit started.

Little said the elder Baldwin was wanted in Magoffin county for questioning in connection with theft of mill fixtures.

Film Success Causing Break?

Hollywood has been rocked by rumors of a pending break in the domestic ties of Norman Foster, screen actor, and his pretty wife, Claudette Colbert, movie star. Observers in cineland attribute the strained relations of the noted couple to the fact Miss Colbert's success in motion pictures has been far greater than that of her husband.

Bank In Cleveland, Formed by Women, Will Have No Men

CLEVELAND, Jan. 30.—Man was relegated to a back seat last night as 75 Cleveland women completed plans to embark on an ambitious program in the field of finance.

With $75,000 capital already subscribed, the women, led by Miss Clara E. Westropp, are expecting to open here the first federal savings and loan association in which men will have no part in the business.

More than that, Miss Westropp says, "we are expecting to make it one of the biggest loan institutions in the country."

Men will be barred from the association, she explains, "because if it made a big success, they'd take the credit, and if it was a poor success, they'd blame the women." Men may be customers, however, she says.

Investigation Into Milk Situation May Start, Davey Warns

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30.—Gov. Davey today aimed an investigation—his third since he took office less than a month ago—at the Ohio Milk Marketing commission.

"There have been many complaints about its operation," he said.

Harry M. Ballman, chairman, immediately responded he "would welcome" an inquiry into activities of the commission, which has been the target of 77 court actions since it was created July 1, 1933.

The commission, which supervises the cooperative efforts and approves the price fixing of distributor-producer associations in 65 marketing areas. It also enforces, with the help of county prosecutors, the prices fixed.

The Burke act creating the commission, expires July 1. Davey said the investigation would show whether it should be re-enacted in its present form.

Poison Liquor Is Blamed For Deaths of 32 In New York

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Numerous white-faced citizens, one by one, applied for hospital treatment today, fearful of having drunk of the poison "white mule" that has spread death in three upstate cities.

With the death toll at 32, Gloverville residents who swallowed alcoholic drinks of uncertain manufacture in the last few days looked anxiously for symptoms of the "creeping death" which has struck down 15 persons here.

Six persons are in the hospital at Ulica and eight men and two women in hospitals here. Twenty others are under observation.

No one known to have consumed the poison liquor has recovered. The victims were stricken blind and died in agony.

Long and Shorts

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 30.—Well, sir, I had a unique experience today. I was literally run out of town through too much kindness. I just had to leave Baton Rouge. These Louisiana people are the most friendly and hospitable you ever saw.

Of course, there is two sides here (but that has nothing to do with their hospitality). There is what I would call the "Longs" and the "Shorts." (There is no medium). Now they are trying to make "Shorts" out of the "Longs," and Huey is trying to make "Longs" out of not only the state "Shorts" but all the U. S. "Shorts."

I visited their capitol today, the finest in the world outside Finland. They have buttons on the desks and they vote by electricity. It's a marvelous way to vote, but Huey runs the switchboard, so it don't matter much which button the boys press—all the answers come out yes. But they are great folks.

ON APPEARANCE

Huey Long's opposition in Louisiana has failed so far to be impressive. It's safe to guess it is being made to seem stronger than it is by observers grown impatient with long observance of the Long political machine.

The north knows little about the group which is fighting Sen. Long's dictatorship. Its information so far consists of a name, the Square Deal association, a leader, Ernest J. Bourgeois, and a few pictures of Leader Bourgeois conducting military drills for his followers. At this writing, with hundreds of state troopers loyal to Sen. Long in Baton Rouge and with Leader Bourgeois in hiding, Louisiana seems in no immediate danger of revolt.

On appearance, the Square Deal leader doesn't promise a great deal. There are no fixed standards for political leaders, but a man like Danton, leader of the French revolution, makes a fair working pattern. First, the man who would overthrow a despot should be physically compelling. In most cases, 6 feet and 200 pounds would be reasonable requirements. Second, he should be an orator. Third, he should be able to think. Fourth, he should be able to act.

Leader Bourgeois is not a large man. In his pictures he looks more like a college sophomore than a man who is going to fight for democracy in the Louisiana bayous. Apparently, he is an orator. Presumably, he can think, or he would be able to see nothing wrong with the Long method of government. His ability to act is problematic.

The necessity for these requirements is demonstrated by reversing the situation in Louisiana. Imagine that Huey Long is out of the saddle trying to get in. Smart, aggressive, a spellbinder and a very fair figure of a man, he would be a favorite in almost any contest. Leader Bourgeois may be able to turn the trick. Appearances are against him, unfortunately. What Louisiana needs is another Huey Long to combat the one it already has.

IN JEOPARDY

Rep. Patman, Texas Democrat with a loud voice and a deep respect for the welfare of war veterans, is a sadder, wiser man. For years he has been leading the fight for cash payment of the bonus. Now, when his proposal has a decent chance at last, his generalship is being questioned.

Rep. Vinson of Kentucky, he claims, has thrown a monkey wrench into the legislative strategy for the bonus bill by introducing a similar bill. Mr. Patman, it is plain, feels he has a proprietary right in the bonus issue. Mr. Vinson, who also claims to speak for bonus seekers, is unwelcome.

In a letter distributed among members of the house of representatives, Rep. Patman calls Mr. Vinson's measure a "bankers' bonus bill." This is a hard phrase. Rep. Patman continues: "It is my honest belief that if the heads of the American Legion had not caused this (Vinson) bill to be introduced, a hearing already would have been held, the bill passed in the house and would now be pending in the senate."

The American Legion, Mr. Patman further charges, has acted contrary to the wishes of its own rank and file by having Mr. Vinson introduce a rival bill. The Vinson bill calls for new taxes to pay the bonus. Mr. Patman, an inflationist as well as a veterans' friend, would pay the bonus in greenbacks. Thus, he has been wounded in two places, both painful.

Just who had the bright idea of getting the two representatives into a scrap isn't known. It doesn't matter greatly. The important thing is that when two politicians with approximately the same ideas fight each other instead of the opposition neither has much of a chance to get anything done. If opponents of a cash bonus didn't think up the idea, it at least is worthy of them.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

PALM BEACH, Jan. 30—Night clubs are skimpy here—One or two fairly smart spots, but the majority suggest Greenwich Village, or Upper Broadway. Miami eaters more expertly to stayovers and their jazz musiques and floor shows are as pretentious as New York's. Bill Dwyer's more so.

Only youngsters are night life high jumpers in Palm Beach. The elders are ready shortly after dinner to call it a day. Some of the old boys are right out in the open, knitting after coffee. But men of the Northwest Mounted are all knitters, too. And so is the Prince of Wales. So what!

Several arty cinema castles, with atrocious accoustics, flower with nightly audiences right out of the Social Register. Ziegfeld used to put on a winter revue. But the legitimate theater is dead here as in other parts of the world. A new best seller causes more excitement than anything here.

Horizons narrow in such retreats. In a few days one becomes absorbed in the petty routine of cabana neighbors, new didoes in bathing costumes, the progress of tans. Even semi-tropics create a languor a rift of day dreams and a conviction there's too much hustle in the world.

Among very grand estates is that of Mrs. Margaret Emerson, famous Baltimore belle and widow of the Lusitania victim, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt.

Just now she is off on a Safari to Nairobi in East Africa to join her 21-year-old son, George, attached to a scientific expedition studying jungle wild life. Her other son, Alfred, 22, is the youngest prominent turfman of his era. He has his own stables of thoroughbreds which have been quite successful at the various tracks, to which he flies and pilots his plane. Old timers regard him as a true sportsman!

The former Fifi Widener and her Danish husband, Aksel Wichfield, have rounded into Palm Beach, almost a copper bronze from their cruise in the South Seas. For a time they lived in the Tahitian capital, Papeete, where they were popular among the international wanderers. Fifi Widener was among first of the rich and glamorous society girls to express the spirit of F. Scott Fitzgerald's younger generation. She was constant and lively copy for the society tatters of New York, Paris and London. The sort taking life in joyous bounds.

One of the jaunty beach patrolers is straight as a ramrod, with the glide of an American Indian. A sort of a Whitney Warren with snow-white hair, and a coco-cola tan. He perhaps doesn't realize almost every eye follows him to watch his peeps into a hand mirror he carries. He glances about furtively, then sneaks a few squints. A few cabanas away they have dubbed him: "Col. Narcissus."

Not all the days are golden with sunshine. The merry upheavals has its downward pang. Now and then a day is gray overcast, sullen and whistling with Caribbean winds. In such interludes, beaches are deserted and only forlorn life guards are about. Verandahs fill with rockers and everybody waits for the arching of the rainbow that so frequently follows four days. There's something for careerists—rocking and awaiting the rainbow!

Norma Talmadge and George Jessel are winter hibernators and have just opened a spacioustly patiosed and fountains home. Jessel airplanes to various theatrical engagements from here, where he is very popular, despite a straw hat band that suggests an explosion in a live and ten. Palm Beach has few stage and screen celebrities. Hugh Dillman, ex-matinee idol of sorts, is gentleman farming here in plus fours. The Phil Bakers are also residents. Those are about all.

A large number of white-coated black-boys who serve meals, chauffeur and do many of the house-keeping chores in homes are from the West Indies. Their passion for galloping dominoes or Harlem tennis keeps most of them strapped. They become even greater addicts of dice games than the American negro. They are also heavy smokers of "reefers." A drug that makes even tri-cycling romantic.

A pancake-sized sand crab clattered over the board sidewalk and onto the cabana porch during a peaceful mid-morning hour. Encouraged by no interference, it crossed the forefoot of the sleeping Billy Awakening, the dog did a straight in the air leap that was a honey. An attendant swept the thing away but the dog continued to howl. A certain lady observed: "He simply can't stand the thought of another old crab!"

A Review of the Day's News

—By Arthur Brisbane—

SENATORS could have settled the World Court matter yesterday. There was plenty of time during the session to push Uncle Sam over the cliff and make him swim around among the quatrals and treacheries of Europe—a continent that already owes us ten thousand million dollars.

The Senators might also have sent word to George Washington, where he lies at Mt. Vernon, saying:

"You were all right in 1776, but we have outgrown you." These things did not happen. Uncle Sam was not pushed. Washington was not snubbed.

THE SENATE stopped, looked, listened not, perhaps, because they decided to show respect for George Washington, or because this country has twice voted overwhelmingly against the League of Nations and the World Court. The senate was interested in MORE THAN 75,000 TELEGRAMS SENT TO SENATORS PROTESTING AGAINST JOINING THE WORLD COURT. When constituents pay telegraph rates for 75,000 messages, that means something to intelligent senators.

ONE SENATOR called New York from Washington, to discuss his vote with a newspaperman. He said he had practically pledged himself to the World Court because he did not like to disoblige President Roosevelt.

No good American would willingly disoblige President Roosevelt.

Telegrams on World Court Issue

Attendants in a telegraph office at the Capitol building in Washington are pictured busily engaged in handling the thousands of telegrams dispatched to senators from all parts of the country urging the legislators to vote for or against the measure providing for the entrance of the United States into the World Court.

Swallowing of Foreign Objects
Recently an unusual exhibit was shown at the New York Academy of Medicine. There was a display of foreign objects, such as toys, pins, nails, pebbles, peas, beans, etc., which had been accidentally swallowed and recovered from the stomachs and intestines of the many victims. Strange as it may seem, this accident has been more commonly the experience of adults.

No doubt you have seen the busy tailor or dress-maker with a mouthful of pins and wondered at his ability to talk. It is more amazing to watch the sword swallower perform in the circus.

The swallowing of foreign bodies is indeed a serious and may be a fatal accident. In most instances it is a thing that can be avoided. Adults should never place non-edible foreign objects in the mouth. It is well to remember, too, that children mimic their elders. If they see their parents indulge in this dangerous practice, they are apt to follow suit.

Young children should be cautioned against the danger of placing buttons, toys or other objects in the mouth. Scold the child if he places anything in his mouth except his food. To guard against this danger, never permit small objects, such as pins, buttons, marbles or very small toys to be left within the reach of a young child.

Carelessness in eating and in the preparation of food is another common factor of this accident. The food for the infant, particularly, should be carefully prepared and strained, in order that it may be free of hard lumps or small bones. When eating fish, the adult can separate the bones, but the child is often careless and may swallow a bone.

Avoid hasty eating. Always chew your food slowly and carefully, especially when eating foods that contain many bones. Above all, avoid pushing and jostling and much laughter while eating. Many an individual has swallowed a large fish bone because of some larity, or an unexpected slap on the back.

May Prove Dangerous

Within recent years the removal of foreign bodies has been simplified by the invention of the "bronchoscope." Though this instrument was first introduced in 1897, it is only within recent years that it has been perfected. By its use the interior of the throat and gullet can be seen. With the assistance of the bronchoscope it is possible to remove foreign objects lodged in the windpipe or lungs.

This instrument checks the need of an operation and prevents many serious complications. Prior to its invention, more than 40 per cent of the victims who swallowed or breathed in foreign objects, met death by the resulting effects of this accident.

Never overlook the seriousness of swallowing a foreign body. Even if there is no pain, it is a good plan to consult with the doctor. If necessary an X-ray picture should be taken to determine the presence and location of the object.

Bear in mind that children often disregard the discomfort or hesitate to complain for fear of a scolding. Neglect in the removal of the object may lead to serious inflammation and infection.

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

SYNOPSIS

In search of adventure, Mark Abbot sails on the S. S. "Orient" for Honolulu. On board, he meets beautiful Vanya Prokova, professional dancer. Vanya ignores Mark, but he cannot forget her. In Honolulu, on a round of the night clubs, he searches for her in vain. Next morning while standing on a wharf, he watches a boat steaming by and is stunned to see Vanya on deck. He learns the vessel belongs to Pearly Shene and is undoubtedly heading south for Tonga in "The Friendly Islands." Anxious to get away from Honolulu, Mark books passage on the "Colin" sailing east. Mark cannot resist inquiries about Vanya's destination. He learns that "The Friendly Isles" were once cannibal islands now inhabited with the scum of the South Seas, a disreputable place for any girl. All night Mark is haunted by Vanya's image. Despite his resolve to forget Vanya, Mark finally arrives in Tonga. He feels that if he can find Vanya and learn more about her, he will be disappointed and the obsession will vanish. At a bar, his pulse quickens at the sight of a dark head, but it turns out to be that of a half-caste.

CHAPTER IX

Mark turned back to the bar, and to strike up a conversation with Jane.

"Business good?"

The burly bar-tender looked him over deliberately before replying. Though Mark was bronzed by his months in the tropics, dressed in the conventional dirty white breeches and boots, something in his manner, his walk or carriage, still differentiated him from the common of the Coral Seas. Finally, however, Jane decided that he must be a planter or rubber-man from one of the other islands. Hapei, perhaps, or Tongatabu.

"Middin', he drawled. "Better when the rains come, and the pearlers can't work."

"Three months to the rains," Mark said.

The other nodded, and went on silently with his work of polishing glasses on a dirty towel.

"Say," Mark said, leaning toward Jane in a confidential manner. "I knew a lady once that worked somewhere here in Tonga—danced. Name is Vanya Prokova. I was just wondering if you knew her?"

Jane shook his head.

"If she danced in Taulanga, it was right here—only place in town. And she didn't—anyway, not by that name. And besides," he grinned, "the only ladies in Taulanga live up by the Residency."

"Well, I just wondered," said Mark. He was keenly disappointed.

"Was she pretty?" asked the bartender with a humorous leer.

"Offhand I'd say so," said Mark. "That settles it, then she never danced in Taulanga, or anywhere else on Vavau. All we ever get is bats like her!"

"Well, I waved a heavy paw at the half-caste girl, who continued playing her game without a single gesture to indicate that she'd heard the remark."

Mark wasn't quite ready to give up, however.

"What about the other islands?" he asked. "Couldn't she be in Nukualofa, over on Tongatabu? Or on Hapei?"

"Might be in Nuku. No place on Hapei."

"Well," said Mark, "that's no great help!"

"If you'd ask about a man, now," said Jane, "I could likely tell you."

SSS TONIC

Makes you feel like yourself again

He waved a heavy paw at the half-caste girl, who continued playing her game without a single gesture to indicate she'd heard the remark.

They're permanent, more or less; and when they do leave, you hear about it. But dance-hall women—" he spat. "They come and go; some of 'em last and some of 'em don't, and," he grinned, "as a general rule, the prettier they are, the less they last!"

"Well, that's that," said Mark. "Thanks."

He walked out of the door into the sun-baked street and turned toward the hotel.

"I ought to be damned glad," he thought. "Not finding her is a break for me, and I'm just stubborn to refuse to recognize it. The Talbot dumbness finds its culmination in me, I guess."

Yet he was decidedly not glad. The picture of Vanya's face, pale, unhappy, and breath-takingly beautiful, rose out of his memory to shatter his elaborate structure of defense. He saw her as he had seen her in his final glimpse, that moment back in distant Honolulu when the schooner had carried her slowly past the dock where he stood.

"That stevedore did say Tonga," he muttered. "No question about that! But he probably didn't know what he was talking about."

But he had mentioned a name. He had mentioned the name of the schooner—what was the ship's name, anyway? And he had mentioned the name of the owner, as well.

Mark nudged his memory. Irish name, he thought—or was it? Peculiar nick-name, too, but peculiar sobriquets were as common in the South Seas as coconut palms. He frowned in the intensity of his concentration.

Sheds, Shane, Sheehan—a dim recollection of the sound of the name plagued him. And then in a flash he had it.

Pearly Shene! Pearly Shene's Porpoise! That was what the dock-hand had said, and that perhaps, was the clue he lacked!

He quickened his pace, regardless of the blazing tropical sun. Perspiration was running down his face when he entered the dingy lobby of the Friendly House. He looked at once to see if the clerk were present, and saw him sitting lethargically behind the desk.

"Did you find the lady?" asked the clerk with a grin as Mark approached.

How in the name of seven devils did gossip travel like that in this town? Mark wondered irritably, but ignored the question.

"Did you ever hear of a man named Pearly Shene?" he asked brusquely.

The clerk nodded.

"I've heard plenty of him!"

"Do you know where he is?"

"Right! He lives at Shene's Cove, over on Tongatabu."

Mark felt a sudden surge of elation.

The Retail Sales Tax

An Explanation of the Way the New Law Will Affect Both the Retailer and the Consumer.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of clarifying articles on Ohio's new retail sales tax, collection of which started last Sunday. The explanations will be given in the form of questions and answers.

Q What is the first step retail merchants must take to comply with the new sales tax?

A Obtain vendors' application blanks from the county auditor, fill them out and file with the auditor at once.

Q Must fee accompany the application?

A Yes, the retailer must pay to the county treasurer $1 for each store in the county where he proposes to carry on business.

Q How long is the license valid and when must it be renewed?

A No renewal or additional license fee is required. The license continues in effect until surrendered by the vendor or cancelled, for cause, by the tax commission.

A Yes, at the county treasurer's office.

Q Are any retail sales exempt from payment of the tax?

A Yes. The following general exemptions are contained in the act: When the consumer is the state of Ohio or any of its political subdivisions.

Q Sale of fluid milk for consumption off the premises and of bread in loaf form.

Q Sales of newspapers, feed, seeds, lime or fertilizer.

Q Farm products when sold by the farmer on his farm.

Q Sales of motor vehicle fuel, cigarettes, wort, malt, beer, wine, spirituous liquors, artificial or natural gas, electricity, city water, telephones.

Q Casual and isolated sales by a vendor not engaged in the retail business.

Q Professional or personal services transactions which involves sales as inconsequential items, for which no separate charge is made.

Q Merchandise sold by charitable and religious organizations when the income is used in philanthropic activities.

Q Sales which are not within the taxing power of this state under the constitution of the United States.

Q The act assumes that all sales not specifically exempted are taxable until the contrary is established.

Q In some states merchants absorb the sales tax themselves. Will this be done in Ohio?

A No. It is expressly forbidden by law. This is a consumer's, not a merchant's tax.

Q What would happen if the merchant absorbed it anyway?

A He would render himself liable to a fine of $25 to $100 for the first offense. For each subsequent offense, he could be fined a like amount and be sent to the county jail for not more than 60 days. In case of a corporation, the penalty for a second offense is a fine of $100 to $500.

Q Must all retail merchants be licensed to collect the sales tax?

A Yes. The penalty for selling at retail without such license is fixed in the sales tax act as a misdemeanor, carrying a fine of $25 to $100.

Q Are milk and bread taxable when included in a meal?

A They are. Milk is exempt only when sold for consumption off the premises and bread only when sold in loaf form.

Q Are street car, bus, railroad and airplane tickets taxable?

A No. The law reads: "Nothing in this act shall be so construed as imposing any tax on the transportation of persons or property."

Q Is a merchant required to preserve the half of the cancelled sales tax receipt he retains?

A Yes.

Q Are purchases from all mail order houses tax free?

A They are if the mail order house is located outside the state of Ohio. If located inside Ohio, the sales tax applies.

Q Is liquor by the glass taxable when sold in hotels, clubs and restaurants?

A Yes, when sold by the glass for consumption on the property.

Q Sale of fluid milk for consumption off the premises and of bread in loaf form.

Q Sales of newspapers, feed, seeds, lime or fertilizer.

Q Farm products when sold by the farmer on his farm.

Q Sales of motor vehicle fuel, cigarettes, wort, malt, beer, wine, spirituous liquors, artificial or natural gas, electricity, city water, telephones.

Across the continent, a big party was planned in Hollywood, with many film stars attending a dance at Warner Brothers studio.

There'll be plenty of fun at Mount Carmel, Ill., where the most "unpopular citizen" is to be selected, with votes costing one cent each. There are seven candidates—and their platforms range from advocacy of "eating crackers in bed" to "throwing gum on sidewalks."

Detroit, with Edsel Ford taking the leadership, already has collected $25,004 for the foundation.

Cincinnati pooled the efforts of 14 organizations with the purchase of a ticket from one permitting attendance at all.

Ideal Man Not Too Handsome

The ideal man, in the opinion of 40 Cleveland office girls, is not too good-looking, but a man with a good personal appearance, a sense of humor, a pleasant disposition, and without conceit. Making up a list of requirements for their ideal man, the girls, members of a Cosmopolitan club, have agreed that clean teeth and fingernails are more important than a perfect profile or curly hair. They want him to have an interest in children—but not too many—and, among other things, not be congenial to the point where he feels it necessary to make "wise cracks."

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

EGGPLANT AS SERVED ABROAD

VISITORS FROM abroad are often pained to see what we do to the eggplant. Over there, it is a delicacy, a great vegetable, and is handled as such. We skin it, salt it, take out any juice, and then fry it and have the nerve to serve these slices as an accompaniment to nice food.

It is suggested that if we must peel and slice the aubergine, that we salt the slices and press them together under a plate for just about an hour, then butter them well, add seasoning and grill the slices to a golden brown, and serve with parsley and lemon. Try this recipe and you will be delighted with the dish. Eggplant is especially popular in the Balkans and in the Levant. Nary a Turkish or Syrian meal is without its eggplant done in different ways which include stewing, grilling, stuffing and combining with lamb or veal.

Eggplant au Gratin

A favorite way of doing the eggplant is to stuff and roast it au gratin. This is very popular in the Midi section of France. The eggplant should neither be peeled or parboiled. Cut it in two, lengthwise, and saute each half, cut side down, in butter or oil, until it is brown. A good idea is to score or cut—but not too deeply—the cut surface. This should be done with a sharp knife. The next step is to scoop out the partially cooked pulp with a spoon, leaving a shell about a quarter-inch thick and mince it with a sharp knife.

Then comes the stuffing. It may well be a little rice, boiled or cooked in oil, as for risotto. In some parts of Europe, the stuffing is compounded of a handful of pine nuts, minced or crushed. Or, perhaps, some fresh tomatoes or tomato paste, minced lamb or chicken, some bread crumbs, some fine herbs, any of these may be mixed with the eggplant pulp.

The stuffing and some egg yolk is placed in the eggplant shells. The crumbs and some grated Parmesan top the shells and the whole affair is baked briskly until nicely browned. Serve with parsley or lemon or concoct a piquant sauce of your own devising to accompany this most delicious of dishes.

MRS. HAUPTMANN OFFERS ALIBI

Takes Stand to Declare Husband Was With Her On Kidnap Night

"In every letter he has asked me how the stocks and in one letter I told him I got to sell his thousand Eltington-Schild," Hauptmann said.
The importance of Fisch as a stock market partner to Hauptmann is chiefly concerned with the circumstances of Hauptmann's assets increasing more than $44,000 after the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom was paid. Hauptmann claims that much of these assets represented cash from Fisch.
Reilly sought to counteract two damaging points of the state's case. He handed Hauptmann his notebook, which had been put into evidence by the state, and had him spell out the word "boat" found therein.
In a cross-examination Attorney General David T. Wilentz had pointed to the same word spelled "boat," just as the word was spelled in the Lindbergh ransom notes which handwriting experts have said Hauptmann wrote.
Hauptmann denied that he had used a plane, in evidence against him, since 1928.
The markings of the plane were identified by a wood expert as similar to those left on the kidnap ladder also in evidence against Hauptmann.
He pointed out two other planes in his tool box and said they were better instruments, preferred by him for his carpentry work.
He denied an implication of the state that there had been improper relations between him and Mrs. Grete Henckle, a comely matron, with whom he drank coffee while Mrs. Hauptmann was abroad.
Reilly also had him meet the testimony of the wood expert on another point—the absence of a 3/4 inch chisel from his tool kit. A 3/4 inch chisel was found near the kidnap ladder, and a chisel of that size had been used in construction of the ladder, the expert said.
"There are three chisels missing," Hauptmann explained.
"The chisels, they are no good at all. They were lying in the garage. That is the chisels I bought just when I started carpenter over here."
Hauptmann also declared that not one dollar of the Lindbergh ransom money which police found in his garage—$14,600—ever went into any of his brokerage accounts. He said he never used any disguise or tried in any way to conceal anything when he passed the 12 to 15 ransom bills he admitted spending.
The state, in producing for Reilly the one postcard from Fisch, declared no other communications could be found.
Wilentz asked a few more questions and said "that's all."
Hauptmann stepped down and went quickly to his seat.
Mrs. Hauptmann was called to testify to alibis for her husband.
She crushed a rolled handkerchief in her hand, and apparently was very nervous.
Q. You are the wife of the defendant?
A. Yes, I am.
Her voice was a tremulous whisper that was almost inaudible.

Ladder Rungs Ring Hauptmann Death Knell?

Ladder left by kidnaper at Lindbergh home has ominous shape of back of death chair in Trenton State Prison. Defense must explain away evidence presented by State that Hauptmann made and used the ladder to save him from the chair. Ladder was placed at Hauptmann door in dramatic scene in court here pictured by Artist Paul Frehm, showing Arthur Koehler, wood expert, showing similarity of ladder material to planking in Hauptmann home to Prosecutor Wilentz and defense attorneys Reilly and Pope.

F. D. R.'S FORCES ARE REVERSED

It was merely an attempt to change votes.
Majority Not Always There
The senate vote demonstrated that the huge Democratic majority—now four more than two-thirds of the membership—cannot be counted upon to uphold the administration on all issues.
Twenty Democrats left the Roosevelt camp. They were joined by 14 Republicans; the progressive La-Follette of Wisconsin, and the farmer-laborite Shipstead of Minnesota.
Forty-three Democrats and nine Republicans voted for adherence.
Of four doubtful senators called to the White House earlier in the day for individual conferences with the President, only Senator Oving, New Mexico Republican who won re-election in November despite lack of administration support,

Already the year's Sensation! The ELECTRIC HAND

EASIER, SAFER DRIVING... YOU SHIFT GEARS AT THE WHEEL... floor all clear in front
"A great idea!" say thousands who are enjoying this brand new driving experience—this vastly better method of gear control—in 1935 Hudson-built cars. With the Electric Hand, you shift as you always have, yet never take your hands from the wheel. You can select in advance the gear you want to use next; the Electric Hand does the shifting.
Crowds are flocking to see this "surprise feature." It's standard on Hudson Custom Eight and optional, for a small amount extra, on all other 1935 Hudsons and Terraplanes. And these cars offer many other things that are new.
The first steel roof. Steel all around you, a steel floor beneath, steel overhead. Bendix Rotary-Equalized Brakes that stop you more quickly, more smoothly, in a short, straight line. Great performance made greater. But you will want to check for yourself. Come and see these cars. Look at the others, too. Compare.

Frisch's Version

Now that the experts have written their last analysis, Manager Frankie Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals comes forward with his very own version of the 1934 world series.

The Cards, says Frisch, became world champions because they were just plain "hot."

Frisch hasn't forgotten the imposing performances of the Dean brothers, but he indicated that it was his belief the Cardinals were reigning favorites of the baseball gods, especially the tumultuous final game at Detroit last October.

"No club in the world could have beaten us that day," he said. "Every time we swung our bats we seemed to hit the ball."

Replies to Questions

Frisch returned to the scene of his triumph Tuesday night to attend a Detroit Yacht club banquet but the nautical atmosphere of the occasion didn't keep him from talking baseball—and he handed his questioners a few surprises.

For instance, they asked him which Tiger pitcher seemed best to him. Instead of coming back with "Schoolboy" Rowe, of course, Frisch immediately named Tommy Bridges.

Frisch also had praise for Detroit's nimble Jo-Jo White, but he hastened to correct the impression that White kicked balls from the hands of himself or any other Cardinal during the series.

"I dropped the ball myself when White knocked me down as he came sliding into the bag on one occasion," Frisch explained.

He did say, too, that the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates would give the National League clubs plenty of trouble this year.

Jack Sharkey, former world's heavyweight champion, thinks Max Baer, present title holder, is a much better boxer than when he knocked Primo Carnera.

Sharkey, who dishes out the sparkling amber fluid instead of punches, was watching Baer in a four round exhibition bout against Dick Madden, Roxbury heavyweight, for which Maxie was receiving $1,000 a round.

"He still has the old thunder in his right duke, and has improved his boxing," said Sharkey. "Notice how he hides his chin behind his left shoulder which he carries high."

"The fellow is smart and keeps improving. At 213 pounds he looks very strong. He has splendid development of the chest and shoulders. He has a certain craftiness which keeps his opponent off balance," he said.

Six Cage Teams Play In "Little City" League at Damascus Tuesday Night

Special to The News

DAMASCUS, Jan. 30.—Goshen High school gym here was the scene Tuesday night of another meeting of the Circle "Little City" basketball league, organized several weeks ago. Six teams saw action last night.

The Berlin flippers walked over the Knox township Business Men 32-18 in a one-sided tilt. All of the Berlin Center cagers scored consistently to win.

Led by S. Bennett with four field goals and two free ones for 10 points, the Winona quintet dropped the Damascus team 31 to 22 in another of the schedule games.

Although outplayed in the second and third quarters, Sebring had little trouble in shading the Berlin five last night 23 to 20. Sebring scored 10 points at the start and 12 more in the final period.

Next week's games on Tuesday night will pit Damascus against Berlin Center at 7 p. m., Beloit against the Knox Business Men at 8, and Winona against the Sebring basketballers in the finale.

Madison Square Garden Opens Counter Attack In New York Boxing War

Col. John Kilpatrick Tells The Commission Of Necessary Action

Trouble Started When Board Reversed Decision Bout Between Babe Risko and Vince Dundee

By BOB CAVAGNARO, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Madison Square Garden has launched its counter attack on boxing, the New York State Athletic commission and the officiating it believes has undermined public confidence in the game. Tex Rickard and the Garden made into a million-dollar industry.

Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the Garden, tossed the first grenade yesterday at the commission's weekly meeting when he announced the Garden would discard one of its forthcoming fight dates. Kilpatrick explained that the date, Feb. 15, will be replaced with a basketball program for financial reasons.

May Hang Up For Rent Sign

There is known to be a rising sentiment in the Garden directorate either to abandon attempts to stage weekly boxing shows, or even to lease the arena for boxing to Jack Dempsey, Arnie Hoffman, Humbert Fugazy, Jimmy Johnston, or anyone else interested. Johnston is the present matchmaker.

"Either the commission's rules are too involved to be readily understood by either officials or the fans, or the judge and referees are not properly qualified or instructed," Kilpatrick told the commission.

Steps to remedy the situation, brought to a head last week when the commission reversed a decision awarded to Babe Risko over Vince Dundee, have been taken, Chairman John J. Phelan announced.

The commission proposes to give the referee and the two judges equal votes in deciding the winner of fights, voiding the present system.

They Grow 'em Tall In Denver

This year its two of his teammates on the Denver Piggly Wiggly squad, Bob Gruening of Chicago, 6 feet, 8 inches, and Lindy Hood of Alabama, 6 feet, 5 inches.

McSpaden Jinx To Golfers In Tourney Plays

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN, Associated Press Sports Writer

GLENDAL, Calif., Jan. 30.—

Determined to do something about the near one-man show Harold McSpaden, youthful Kansan has been making of the California winter golfing tour, half the field of almost 250 of the country's top-ranking players went to the first tee today for the initial round of the $6,500 Oakland championship.

Included in this group were Vic Ghezzi, Los Angeles open title holder; Craig Wood, leading money winner in the annual trek two years ago; Jimmy Thomson, winner of the Melbourne open; and Gene Sarazen, former open champion.

The field frankly admitted the man it most feared was McSpaden whose spectacular play already has won him more than $3,000 in cash along with the Pasadena, Sacramento and San Francisco titles. He also collected money in the Los Angeles and California opens.

As Floods Held South and Northwest in Grip

Causing damages running into millions, flood waters have inundated sections in the south and northwest following rains and heavy snows. Top, the raging waters of the Snohomish river surging through the streets of Everett, Wash., after overflowing the river banks; below, convicts in striped uniforms work desperately to mend a broken levee on the Coldwater river near Marks, Miss.

F.D.R. TO CHANGE CODE ON AUTOS

Will Consult Both Sides; Results of Detroit Poll Listed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—President Roosevelt and N. R. A. officials have agreed that, instead of extending the present automobile industry code again, changes should be made with a view to "regularizing" the industry. In an effort to win agreement on a formula to that end, the President decided to consult employer and employee leaders at once.

It was recognized that, with labor and capital again in sharply conflicting positions in that industry, the President had undertaken an extremely difficult task. The employers were represented as willing to cooperate to the extent of lengthening their production season from one of about five months to one of about eight months.

Beyond that the employers, it was said, were unwilling to go in reopening the code. They will not agree to the drastically curtailed work week and the higher wages demanded by labor, nor to give up the "merit" clause, unique in the National Recovery Administration, by which they reserve the right to dismiss employees for inefficiency.

Rather than yield to labor on other points in dispute, the employers would be satisfied to go without a code, it was made clear. Since their present code expires at midnight Thursday, this was taken to mean that America's first industry would go out from under the National Recovery Administration if pushed "too hard" by the President.

While officials were reticent about the White House conference, there was a feeling that the President would not push that hard. Organized labor was thought to have been weakened for the conference by its surprisingly poor showing in a Detroit poll on labor organization affiliations just reported by the President's automotive labor board.

Result of Detroit Poll
The result of the secret ballot, as reported to Washington, was:
Unaffiliated 34,733
American Fed. of Labor 1,847
Employee's Associations 508
Associated Auto. Workers of America 256
Mechanics Educational Society of America 164
Auto Service Mechanics Asso. 16
Auto Workers Union (Communist) 14
Society of Designing Engineers 7
International Workers of the World 4
Blank Ballots 465
Void Ballots 772
Total ballots cast 38,336

Fine Cast In College Film Here Thursday; Good Double Bill Tonight

"THE BAND PLAYS ON", opening at the State Thursday, is strictly a collegiate picture. It is the story of college youth, its trials and tribulations and its romantic interludes.

It is enriched by a well-balanced and well known cast of players, who individually have always been known for their fine performance. There is Robert Young who did so well in that other recent athletic film "Death on the Diamond", Stuart Erwin, Leo Carrillo, Betty Furness, Ted Healy, Russell Hardy, William Tannen and Robert Livingston.

Life—romance—gaily—all are to be found in this delightful college romance. The story is that of four boys and a girl. Young, Erwin, Hardie and Tannen, chums since boyhood who comprise a phalanx that battles from the slums through school and college to win fame on the gridiron. Their friendship is a legend when they enter the Pacific university and when they play football it is one for the other. They win the name of the "Four Bombers". Kitty, Mike's sister, is adored by all four and she too enters the college.

Each week the boys hand over their check (they are waiting the girl and she takes care of the finances. Kitty and Mike have a brother Joe who is a crook. After his release from prison he tries to join the Four Bombers up to play football for a professional team at $500 per game. Kitty begs him to let them alone but the boys are interested, especially Tony. Tony is in love with Kitty and the money means they can be married. At game time the next Saturday Tony is no where to be found and stuffy decides he must be with Joe. He starts in the car to find him and is hurt badly when the auto is wrecked. With good old stuffy hurt the four are re-united again—almost. For Tony believes that Kitty is in love with stuffy and just about disappears again but it works out all right.

The film is swift moving, zippy and invigorating. It thrives with the college spirit, for it is a story of college rather than football, with a well told story and a grand cast.

Tonight
AN entertaining double feature bill is at the State this evening. The first film is "Lottery Lover" and features Lew Ayres, Pat Patterson, Peggy Fears and Reginald Denny. The second film is Jimmy Cagney's latest, "The St. Louis Kid" in which he is supported by Patricia Ellis, Allen Jenkins and Dorothy Dare.

Appeal Dismissal
COLUMBUS, O. Jan. 30.—Harry Aiken, superintendent, and his wife, Cora, matron of the Logan county children's home will be heard Feb. 14 at a hearing on their appeal from dismissal. The hearing will be before the state civil service commission which will sit in the courthouse at Bellefontaine.

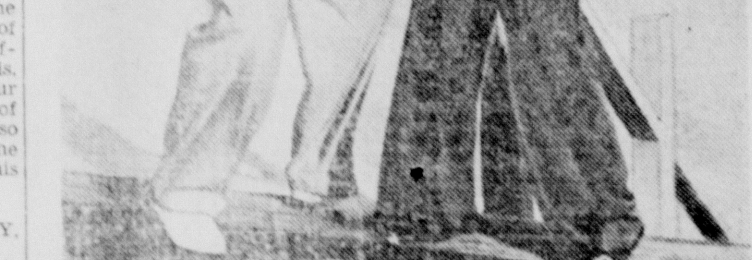

Mr. and Mrs. Aiken were dismissed a week ago by trustees of the home who charged them with inefficiency.

SCOTTDALE, Pa.—Pat Pascretta was fast in getting away from the danger zone, entirely too fast. There was an argument over a card game in Patsy's store and someone pulled a gun.

Pascretta ran into the street and fell, breaking his leg. A stray bullet also gave him a flesh wound.
